10.4 Demonstrative pronouns / Δεικτικές αντωνυμίες

The demonstrative pronouns are used to indicate which entity the speaker refers to. The most common demonstrative pronouns are:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>αυτός</th>
<th>αυτή</th>
<th>αυτό</th>
<th>εκείνος</th>
<th>εκείνη</th>
<th>εκείνο</th>
<th>τέτοιος</th>
<th>τέτοια</th>
<th>τέτοιο</th>
<th>τόσος</th>
</tr> </thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>this</td>
<td>that</td>
<td>such</td>
<td>so much, so many</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The demonstrative pronouns follow the declensional pattern of the corresponding adjectives in -ος, -η, -ο or -ας, -α, -ο and agree in gender, number and case with the noun they refer to.

αυτός ο κύριος
εκείνη η κυρία
εκείνο το βιβλίο
αυτά τα παιδιά

this gentleman
that lady that book
these children
